1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The description of the two longitudinal conical projections, ring, inverted "Y", cross-shaped leg, and pressure spring as recited in claim 1 and described in the specification are not understood. It is not understood how the above items function in the overall operation of the valve. It is not understood how the pressure spring located between the inverted "Y" 10 and the upside-down plate 13 function in the overall operation of the valve.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

See the above rejection.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
